Maker Guide

A practical guide for artists, artisans, designers and independent makers.

Some pieces take another direction: an experiment, an unexpected result, a work kept in the studio. ommi brings these singular pieces into a curated Archive, with their stories intact.

> Applying and joining are free. Each application and each piece is reviewed by the ommi team.

01 What fits

These pieces fall into three editorial groups:

01

Born from Exploration

experiments, prototypes, material tests, colour studies and technical samples.

02

Unexpected Outcome

unplanned material reactions, deformations, surface variations and unique finishes.

03

Preserved from Production

archived work, discontinued collections and last editions worth keeping.

Choose the group that best describes each piece and explain its story honestly. Not every singular piece is a mistake.

Before you apply

Prepare:

01 Your studio or project name, a contact person, email address and telephone number.

02 Your pickup address, including street, city, postcode and country.

03 A short introduction to your practice, main discipline and materials.

04 The kinds of singular pieces you expect to share and what you hope to find through ommi.

05 3–6 representative portfolio images, plus one photograph of yourself or the place where you make. Portfolio images do not need to show pieces intended for ommi.

06 Your website or Instagram link, if you have one.

The initial application is about you and your practice. You do not need to submit individual pieces or set up Stripe or Packlink before applying. The team reviews your application; acceptance is not automatic.

After acceptance

Use your maker dashboard to prepare:

01 A title, object type, discipline, materials and techniques.

02 One singularity group, a short account of what happened, and why you kept the piece.

03 4–8 clear photographs: overall views, details, textures and the singular feature.

04 The final public selling price, in euros, including ommi's commission.

05 Packed height, width, depth and weight, or the form's explicit "not known yet" selections. Object dimensions can be added when known.

06 The form's required confirmations about accuracy, rights, review and use of the submitted material.

Each piece is individually reviewed before publication. If parcel details are not known yet, ommi will contact you to complete them before publication.

Pricing and commission

Enter the final public selling price in euros, including ommi's commission. ommi does not add a markup above the price you enter. Set an honest price that reflects the materials, work and condition of the piece.

The standard commission is 30% when a piece sells. It is calculated on the goods amount actually sold, after any discount, excluding shipping and VAT. There are no application, listing or subscription fees. No sale, no commission. Existing individual agreements remain applicable.

Specific promotions may provide a different commission. Check the current conditions and confirm the applicable rate before submitting a piece.

Exclusivity and availability

While a selected piece is actively listed for sale on ommi, that exact piece must not be offered for sale elsewhere. You remain free to sell your other work through your own channels.

There is no automatic minimum six-month listing commitment. Homepage featuring and an active Archive listing are different things. Contact ommi about changes to availability or a listing; withdrawals and any pending orders remain subject to the applicable participation terms.

Payments and shipping

After acceptance, continue in the maker dashboard to complete your profile, prepare Stripe for payments and set up Packlink or your own shipping profile. These are not required before applying.

Use the measurements and weight of the packed parcel for shipping. If you do not know them when submitting a piece, select the corresponding unknown options and complete the details with ommi before publication. Prepare suitable packaging and fulfil accepted orders under the agreed terms.
